Bing

Sure! Here are the steps:

1. Start with a single workspace to reduce the complexity of managing multiple workspaces and in querying data from them.
2. There are no performance limitations from the amount of data in your workspace. Multiple services and data sources can send data to the same workspace.
3. As you identify criteria to create more workspaces, your design should use the fewest number that will match your requirements.

I hope this helps!